

Exhibition programme 2027

»Roca« vase
Andreas Decker, 2024
Photo Andreas Decker

Silver Lining

17 May 2026 through 6 January 2027

Under the title of Silver Lining, our three exhibitions and three additional presentations are intended to help find the silver lining on the horizon:

- 21st International Silver Triennial, organised by the Association for the Promotion of the Goldsmith's Art and the German Goldsmiths' House in Hanau

- Cool Brilliance - the Jewellery Museum's highlights made of silver and diamonds, plus select historical pieces created by Grossé Sterling

- Afghanistan, Oman or the Black Forest?

Silver highlights from the ethnographic Herion collection

- Notes in the Margin - fashion and photography by Monika Markert and Silke Helmerdig

- ONE MILLION installation by Uli Aigner

Admission € 12.50, reduced price € 10

© Pforzheim University
Photo Harald Koch

Materia prima

International Museum Day, 23 May 2027 through 13 February 2028

Historical instructional materials from Pforzheim University as impetus for future design

»Materia prima« - the »first matter« - refers to the shapeable primary matter from which something new is created by working it. Under this title, the international exhibition will be showcasing historical instructional materials of Pforzheim University as a starting point for new creative work. The venues of the exhibition - in addition to the Jewellery Museum and the Technical Museum, Pforzheim's Arts Association is also involved - will become places of transformation: rings, enamel work, plaster casts, fabric samples, photographic glass slides, gemstones, electroformed objects, samples collections and books will serve as sources of inspiration. International artists will remove these items from their original didactic order and transfer them to new arrangements. The artists involved will be Claudia Angelmaier, Philipp Goldbach, Ilana Halperin, Annegret Kellner, Marcel Odenbach and Diana Scherer. Other international positions will be on display as well.

Admission € 12.50, reduced price € 10